UNCLE SAM MAY NOT PAY. The "Two-Per-Cent." Case Likely to Be De cided Against the States.

Special to the Indianapolis Journal. WASHINGTON, Oct. 11 .- It is believed by the lawyers in the case that the Illinois suit against the government, known as the "two-per-cent. case," involving about half a million dollars, will go against the State. This is a matter of vital importance to Indiana. The case was stubbornly contested last spring for more than a week, Attorney-general Hunt, of Illinois, making the argument for the State. Indiana and Ohio had similar claims and were represented at the legal battle by their Attorneys-general. The case has hung fire ever since, but will be disposed of the latter part of this month, when the Court of Claims reassembles for the fall term. Altogether the claims of the three States amount to nearly two million

The feeling that the decision will be adverse to the States is based on the circumstance that Judge Knott, who is writing the opinion, has requested certified copies of serveral papers which would not be needed if the decision was to be favorable to the State. Four judges of the Court of Claims heard the two-per-cent. cases, but it was decided to submit the subject to Judge Knott for his opinion. He has been in Massachusetts for his vacation, and has taken the voluminous documents in the cases with him to study the subject during his liesure hours. He has now written to the Attorney-general's office, requesting certified copies of the records showing that the states of to Alabama and Mississippi received no allowance under the two-per-cent. law prior to 1841. The United States based its defense largely upon the facts in the cases of Alabama and Mississippi, and if this point is held good it will defeat the claimants. Under these circumstances the specific information which Judge Knott requests is construed by the lawyers to mean that the precedent of Alabams and Mississippi is final, and that the records concerning those States will be incorporated in the decisions adverse to the two-per-cent, claims of Illinois, Indiana and Ohio.

MAKING GREAT PROGRESS. The Colored Race Rapidly Coming to the Front-A State Fair Exhibit.

Special to the Indianapolis Journal. WASHINGTON, Oct. 11.-In connection with the efforts which are being made to secure a special exhibit at the world's fair from the colored race of this country and the upheaval in politics South not a little interest is here felt in the progress which the colored race is making at this time. For the first time in the history of the country the colored people are making themselves felt now. President Harrison is among those who are watching the work of the colored people, especially in the South, and he believes that if they had proper encouragement and support they would place themselves upon better educational, moral and financial basis without material assistance from the white race. They appear to need only moral support at this time. The President regards the defeat of the Blair educational oill as doubly unfortunate in view of recent developments.

Just now great interest is being shown here in the exhibit which the colored people of the South intend making at the State fair at Raleigh N. C. If this proves the success which it is believed it will attain it will be in itself a strong argument in favor of a colored folks' exhibit in connection with the world's fair, and they who have it in charge realize the fact. M. M. Lewey, editor of the Florida Sentinel, one of the foremost journals of the South, is taking a promiment part in the work of getting up this special race exhibit, and should it prove successful most of the credit will be due to him. Mr. Lewey recently purchased the plant of the collapsed Jacksonville Daily Tribune, and is said to have the finest printing outfit in the extreme South. It is certainly a great credit to the enterprise of a colored man. Mr. Lewey proposes to issue an edition of 30,000 copies of the Florida Sentinel for distribution at the Raleigh exposition, in which he will show what progress the colored race has made, It is expected to mark an important epoch in the race's history.

THE MILITARY ACADEMY.

Observations and Recommendations of t Board of Visitors-Faulty Instruction. WASHINGTON, Oct. 11 .- The Secretary of War has received the report of the visitors to the Military Academy at West Point through Maj. John M. Carson, of this city, a member of the board, and its secretary, by whom the document was prepared. report is a very elaborate and comprehensive paper, covering upwards of one hunred printed pages. The board agreed to recommend the passage of an act fixing the strength of the corps of cadets at a maximum of 469. The board recommends that, in addition to the present allotment of one cadet to each Representative and Delegate in Congress, two cadets be allowed to each State at large, to be nominated by the Senators respectively. and that the President be authorized to nominate from the country at large twenty. The board calls attention to the inefti ciency of the present preliminary examinations, as shown by the failure to graduate more than 50 per cent. of the cadets admitted. The board strongly condemns the practice of filling the professorships at the academy entirely army officers. They might it is said, properly hold such places as have intimate relation with the science of war: not otherwise. The deficiency in English is said to be painfully apparent at the academy, and it is urgently recommended that more attention be given to the subject. In this connection the board also says very pointedly: "None of the instructors in the department of modern languages bave a speaking knowledge of either French or Spanish, the two modern languages taught at the academy. The ability to speak these languages does not seem to be regarded as essential in instruction at West Point.'

The board says: "While the corps of cadets is thoroughly instructed in all field movements, certain details are omitted from the scheme of military instruction to which we respectfully direct the attention of the proper authorities. In the school of the soldier, mounted, the cadet receives no instruction in the care of horses. He never sees a horse groomed and knows nothing about saddling and bridling. upless he obtained such information before entering the academy. seems to the board that instruction on these points is essential." The board directs attention to the utter iack of proper arms and equipment for field exercises, and particularly to the need for modern cine replied: "Yes, sir, quite likely, but the ordnance.

Governor Campbell's Statements About Imports of Canadian Wheat Untrue, Special to the Indianapolis Journal.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 11 .- Governor Campbell, in his campaign against Major Mc-Kinley, has searched the records, far and near, to find something which would afford him a weapon for his attack upon the new tariff law on the stump in Ohio. He has been saying in his speeches that the farmer was not protected to any appreciable extent, and instanced an "enormone import of wheat from Canada in direct competition with the production of wheat along the northern boundaries of Ohio and New York," especially. The correspondent sent to the Treasury Department and looked up the statistics, and will report that at the port of Buffalo, last year, three bushels were received by importers, and that during the year before the amount of wheat imported was five bushels. The duty on wheat is so high the foreign product is not a competitor in any sense to domestic wheat unless there should be a crop failure.

Indians Make Model Soldiers. WASHINGTON, Oct. 11 .- Reports received at the War Department indicate that the enlistment of Indians into the United States army has proved to marked success. So far there are seven troops composed entirely of Indians and two troops in the course of formation. These enlisted Indians can all read and speak English. They obey orders readily, are intelligent and quick, and, in fact, it is stated, make model sol-diers. It is stated at the War Department that an Indian troop will probably be transferred to Fort Myer, near Washington, during the coming winter.

Boulanger and Robert T. Lincoln.

Special to the Indianapolis Journal. Washington, Oct. 11 .- "General Boulanger the French agitator, who committed suicide the other day, was proud of the fact that he resembled Robert T. Lincoln, ex-Secretary of War and now minister to the Court of St. James,' said a gentleman this morning upon his return from a tour of Europe. "Boulanger was more slight than Robert Lincoln. He was a little more straight he was somewhat jaunty. But he had the eye, the step, the same colored the dress, and without the dress, and, withal, the way of addressing his conversation, and of turning about when spoken to or when he looked at an object. He was exceedingly nervous, but not petulant. He was proud, proud to the last degree. He was sensitive, too, for I have never seen a man who wanted to know so much about what people thought of him, or what it was best he should do to make himself the least criticised."

Dr. McGlynn Assails the Pope. NEW YORK, Oct. 11 .- Rev. Dr. McGlynn opened his winter series of Sunday-night lectures at Cooper Union to-night by a talk on the Pope. He said the time might come when "we will have a democratic Pope who will walk down Broadway with a stovepipe hat on his head." Personally, he said, he had been emancipated from diplomatic relations with the Pope, and was consequently competent to give him unprejudiced advice. He advised him not to listen to the flattery such men as Archbishop Corrigan who, while assuring him that he was the greatest Pope who ever lived, was getting ready to asure the next one that he is greater than all predecessors. In the language of New Yorkers, such flattery was "taffy." He commiserated the Pope on approaching senility, and wound up by

The McKinley Law Abroad.

New York Press. Ex-Congressman George West, of Ballston, who has recently returned from England, told yesterday of an incident of his sojourn in London, which shows that the "McKinley prices" dodge is being worked on the other side of the Atlantic as well as in the United States. He went into a drug store to buy a bottle of patent medicine which is of French manufacture. It sells in the United States at $1 a bottle-75 cents It in the cut-rate stores. The London druggist wanted 4s. 6d., or about $1.12 for a bottle. "Why, that is higher than we pay for it in the United States," said Mr. West to

"HOLD ON: FIGHT ON."

Parnellites Asked to Adopt a Motto-Cali for the Election of a New Leader. LONDON, Oct. 11.-The National League of Great Britain has issued the following manifesto: "Six months ago the members of this executive were appointed by Mr. Parnell to advance the cause of Irish independence in Great Britain. Fighting under many difficulties, we held our ground, and rallied every Irishman who remained true to the principle for which our leader lived and died-the principle of an independent Irish party and an independent Irish Parliament. Ireland has received a blow by his death from which she will not recover for a generation. When O'Connell died all was chaos. A parliamentary party sprang up, but failure and disgrace marked its course. Nothing was done for Ireland, and the name 'Irish member' became a byword. Femanism arose and all was changed. Irish affairs absorbed attention in Parliament, while Irishmen died for Ireland on the scaffold, or perished in prison or in exile. Something was then done. The English state church in Ireland disappeared, and the first step was taken in the tardy course of legislation for the protection of the Irish tenant. The power of Fenianism was for the moment broken, but not until it had revived the spirit of nationality. Parliamentary agitation followed the mometary subsidence of the Fenian movement, and once more failure marked its course. Then Charles Stewart Parnell came and all was changed. Rallying the forces of Irish nationality everywhere, and combining revolutionary action with constitutional agitation, he fixed the attention of the civilized world on the wrongs and miseries of Ireland. English parties and English leaders bowed before him. Tories vied with Liberals to gain his support Firm, inexorable, commanding the followers whom he found a rabble, and whom he made and army, he dictated terms to the English Ministry, and the Ministry granted them. In ten years he did more for Ireland than had been done in generations. Measure after measure bearing his mark took its place on the statute book. His work was crowned when the English Premier brought in a bill to establish an Irish Parliament. He is gone. Ireland mourns at his grave to-day. "What is the duty of those left behind? What is the duty of the men who followed him? To the last to struggle for Irish freedom. It is said we fought for the man and not the principle. It is untrue. We fought for the principle which the man embodied. The man himself was indeed a principle—the principle of self-reliance and independence, which nothing could sap, and to that principle we are stanch. "Now it is necessary that the members of this organization should elect a new president and a new executive and we invite the branches in Great Britain to take im mediate steps to this end. We urge our fellow-countrymen not to despair. It victory seems distant we ask them to take for their motto the last words addressed by Mr. Parnell to the executive: 'Hold on:

WANT NO INTERFERENCE.

Germans Do Not Like Kaiser Wilhelm's Measure to Repress Drunkenness, Copyright, 1891, by the New York Associated Press. BERLIN, Oct. 10.-After a long recess the Bundesrath or legislative body representing the individual states of Germany, reassembled on Wednesday. The house considered, as the first order of the day, the projected law to repress drunkenness, which, as is well known, is a pet measure of the Emperor. The fact that the initiative proposals come from the Emperor failed to commend the bill to the Bundesrath. A majority of the plenipotentiaries declared that their governments could not accept the project in its present form. The member appointed to the Bundesrath by the Bavarian government intimated that the state he represented desired no such liquor legislation as the bill provided. The bill ought, he declared, to be withdrawn The Prussian member, acting under instructions from the Emperor, was the only plenipotentiary who defended the measure. The bill was finally referred to a committee. It is certain that it will appear in the Reichstag transformed from a rude, thorough attack upon the liquor trade into a mildly beneficent bill for the protection of the drunkard. The liquor-dealers, though feeling reassured as regards the adoption of the bill as a sweeping reform, are arranging for the holding of a congress at Stuttgart for the purpose of organizing a political defense for themselves,

After this bill had been referred to the commission, the Bundesrath pext discussed the abolition of prohibition against the importation of American pork. The house approved the edict opening the country to American imports, but will delay a decision on the proposal of Chancellor Von Caprivi to relax the vexatious formalities restrictthe entry of Austrian, Italian and Russian pork into Germany. Austria has complained of the partiality shown the United States, while the Dreibund allies are not similarly favored.

The virtual rejection by the Bundesrath of the Kaiser's bill for the suppression of drunkenness has had quite a sobering effect on the Kaiser, while it immensely gratifies the Bismarckians. The members of the Bundesrath treated the proposition in a summary fashion that showed but little respect for its imperial origin, and indirectly indicated their wish that federal legislation should be contined to subjects of federal importance and interest. One reason for this feeling, undoubtedly, is that the social reform measures adopted at an earlier period in the Kaiser's reign are not showing satisfactory results and there is a general disposition among the states of the empire not to undertake any more tentative scheme of social improvement until the im-

DEMANDS OF SOCIALISTS.

Other Things Radical in Germany. [Copyright, 1891, by the New York Associated Press.] BERLIN, Oct. 10. - Special interest attaches to the Socialist congress which will shortly assemble at Erfort. The directing committee has revised the programme of the proceedings, which is now formulated with a clearness and precision never before seen in any authorized Socialist platform. In ten resolutions the entire political and economic demands are stated. They comprise universal suffrage without distinction as to sex, a secret ballot, proportionate representation, voting on Sundays or holidays, the payment of members, the popular right to initiate or reject legislation, popular control of the state, provincial and communal administrations, annual votes on taxation, a popular decision as to peace or war, the creation of international arbitration tribunals, the right of free speach and free meetings, the abolition of state subventions to churches, universal military instruction, militia replacing the standing army, the secularization of the schools, free education, free justice, that judges be elected by the people, gratuitous medicine, state-supported doctors, a progressive income tax, the abolition of indirect taxation, eight hours for a day's work, unbroken repose for hirty-six hours weekly for every workman state surveillance of factories, mines and other industries, the formation of labor bureaus, the co-operation of workmen in the administration, universal state insurance, prohibiting the employment of children under fourteen years of age, the prohibition of the truck system, and the right of workmen to form coalitions. Comprehensive as these demands are, there are extremists in the party who want more. If the young section dominated in the congress there would be some general declarations against property, and other anarchistic resolutions adopted. The directing committee has elaborated a programme which, while not proposing to overturn the state, proposes to transform the state into a socialistic

The Autumn Season Now in Full Swing-Lord Tennyson's Play Yet Unnamed. LONDON, Oct. 11.—Smiles are beginning to reappear upon the faces of the theatrical managers of this city, for, with the reopening of the Haymarket with Henry Arthur Jones's "The Dancing Girl" on Monday last, and with the reopening of the St. James with C. Haddon Chambers's "The Idler." the autumn season of theater business may be said to be in full swing. At the Lyceum. In spite of the fact that much has already been writter, and that much more has been said upon the subject, there is still considerable curiosity and gossip in regard to Lord Tennyson's play which he is pre-paring for Mr. Dal v. For instance, Theodore Watts writes that the central figure of the poet laureate's theatrical effort will be Maid Marion, the heroine of the Robin Hood and Sherwood Forest legends, but that "Maid Marion" will be the title of the the piece in which Hallam Tennyson expects Miss Rehan to make such a shining success is not true. Several titles are now under discussion, but the question has not yet been settled definitely and may not be for some time to come. Mr. Watts asserts that Tennyson's comedy was not born of Rehan's genius. It was orginally drawn for Ellen Terry, and subsequently Mary Anderson signed an agreement to produce it, but her marriage and retirement from the stage prevented her from carrying out her contract. Mr. Daly prevailed upon Lord Tennyson to alter his work so that it should harmonize more completely with

GENERAL FOREIGN NEWS.

England Warned that Russia Is at the Outposts of India Ready to Enter.

LONDON, Oct. 11. - The Standard publishes a communication in regard to the recent socalled aggressive action of Russia in Pamir, which says: "It is high time for England to unsheath her sword in Asia. The Russian tide of conquest, which has flowed steadily eastward for fifty years, must be sent sweeping back to the Caspian. Russia has boldly pushed on until she now stands at the very outposts of India." The Standard, in a leading editorial commenting upon this communication, says it has no liking for "scares," and that its purpose is "not to suggest alarm, out to enforce the necessity of firmness and vigilance, adding there is no question of hostilities, but if it were possible to conceive a struggle for supremacy in Asia, it should be decided in Pamir. It would be an easy matter for our Indian authorities to pull down the eagle which, in ill-timed Chanvinism, a Cossack commander boisted in the wilderness. The game of 'bounce' has so far been played with success, but there is a limit beyond which it cannot be pushed. The signal for retreat should be given when the Cabinet of St. James speaks clearly on the subject."

Americans Cannot Have the Lutzowplatz. LONDON, Oct. 11.-The American Union Church recently asked the municipal authorities of Berlin to grant a new lite for a church on the Lutzowplatz. The request was declined on the ground that the city needed the square as a place for public recreation. The congregation, conconsisting of the adherents of most of the American evangelical bodies, have collected a building fund, which now amornts to 120,000 marks. The trustees have reason to expect that they will obtain from their countrymen the 400, 000 marks required for the erection of the church. Hon. William Walter Phelps, the American min-ister, wrote a letter to Burgomaster Forckenbeck supporting the petition of the trustees for the Lutzowplatz. Herr Foreckenbeck was unable to give the church the site asked for, but, through the influence of the Emperor, the trustees hope to get a grant in the western part of the city.

SOME OCTOBER MAGAZINES. The Review of Reviews deserves its secondary name, the "busy man's magazine," for one who lacks time to keep the run of events by perusal of the newspapers can keep himself posted from the pages of this monthly, which is up with the times and not, like other monthly publications, so far behind that the public has half forgetten the matters but recently of current interest. The reviews given are not mere dry detail and chronology, but are brief, comprehensive and readable summaries. The field of current literature is also covered in this admirable periodical. Among subjects given prominence in the October issue is "A World Congress of Methodism." Mr. Stead, the editor, writes of Hugh Price Hughes and his work in the West London Mr. Hughes is the most notable English delegate to the Methodist Ecumenical Council. 13 Astor Place, New York.

Outing for October covers the field of out-of-door sports and pleasures. Deer stalking in the Indian Territory, photographing black babies in the South, goose shooting in the Sacramento valley, horseback sketches, foot-ball statistics, mackerel seining and wheel riding are among the subjects discussed by enthusiastic writers. A measure of this enthusiasm is apt to transfer itself to the reader, however indifferent he may be in the beginning.

The Engineering Magazine (New York) discusses some points of popular interest, among them the little-understood art of landscape gardening, which, as the writer points out, has a positive worth in enhancing the value of property, whether it be employed by single land-owners or by entire communities. William Claypool, a civil engineer, offers some practical suggestions on the making of good wagon

Among the topics discussed by contributors to the October Arena are: "Healing through the Mind." "Emancipation through Nationalism," "Madame Blavatsky," "James Russell Lowell," and "Some Weak Spots in the French Republic." A short story by Will Allen Dromgoole, entitled "A Grain of Gold," is a pathetic argument against the evils of the Southern convict system. The Atlantic Monthly is not much addicted to "dialect" literature, and to sustain its reputation it should have omitted the very poor specimen that appears in the October issue. "Gran'ther Hill's Patridge" has no good excuse for being. One of the most entertaining contributions to the number is an account of the "Cave-Dwellers of the Confederacy."

Miss Sara Jeanette Duncan, author of those sprightly books, "A Social Departure" and "An American Girl in London," is given the place of honor in Scribners' Book Buyer this month. She is a pretty young woman with a twinkle of humor in her eyes, which carries the conviction that she might easily have been the heroine of the adventure she relates.

The Eclectic for October contains papers by Sir Alfred Lyall, Professor Dowden, Grant Atlen, Professor Tyndall, Archibald Forbes, and other writers nearly as well known. Among those whose names are not so familiar to the American public is that of Mrs. Andrew Lang, whose subject 1s "Rousseau's Ideal Household." Murat Halstead contributes an excellent historical sketch of the city of Cincinnati to the Cosmopolitan for October. It is accompanied by illustrations of important buildings and portraits of distinguished men who have had a part in its history. The Decorator and Furnisher for October tells how to furnish a kitchen and offers suggestions for the decoration of diningroom and bedrooms. There is also chapter on wood carving and another on draperies and embroideries. The complete novel in Lippincott for October is "Lady Patty," by the Duchess, whose stories are always bright and entertaining. Julien Gordon has a sensible article on "Healthy Heroines."

Scribner declare that the sales of some of Mr. Stockton's books have reached the following figures: "Rudder Grange," 40,000 copies; "Mrs. Null," 30,000, and "The Lady or the Tiger!" 25,000. "The Rudder Grangers Abroad." issued very recently, is in its sixth edition. The author of "Rutledge," one of the most popular novels ever published in this country, has written a new novel, which is to be published shortly by D. Appleton & Co. The title of Mrs. Harris's forthcoming book is "An Utter Failure," and is described as a work of remarkable interest. L. J. Kipling, the father of the storrwriter, is the author of a book called "Man and Beast in India." which the Macmillans will publish. The book is in the nature of an account of the lives of the various nations in India. It will have many illustrations from drawings by the author, not a few of which are very curious.

In "Adam Bede" George Eliot, in propria persona, muses thus: "What greater thing is there for two human souls than to feel that they are joined for life-to strengthen each other in all labor, to rest on each other in all sorrow, to minister to each other in all pain, to be one with each other in silent, unspeakable memories at the moment of the last parting?" "And this." says the Pall Mail Budget, "is the key-note to the inscriptions which she wrote in her manuscripts," which have recently, by the terms of her will, passed into the possession of the British Museum. The manuscripts are inscribed, in various phrases of endearment, to George Henry Lewes.

The Modern Prodigal Son.

New York Tribune Last summer a Nebraska young man disappeared from his home, leaving word that ne was going to have a good time, like the Prodigal Son of Holy Writ. The other day he came home, leading a calf, and on meet-his father he said: "Well, father. I have had enough of a time to last me the rest of my life. Will you take back your prodigal? I have brought a calf with me." which the old man replied, "I see two calves, my son; but let that pass. I need another hired man, and if you will keep straight I'll take you on." "By gum, yer a white man, dad," replied the son, and he immediately went to work to show that he had reformed. As for the calf, it was decided not to kill it, as it was blooded stock. and when raised will be a valuble cow.

ing Affray at Champaign, Ill. CHAMPAIGN, Ill., Oct. 11 .- At 11 o'clock last night Royal Voorhees was stantly killed and Robert Creque probably fatally wounded by shots fired by Daniel Renner, the result of a trivial quarrel, the men having been drinking. Renner fled to Tuscola, his home, where he was arrested to-day by Marshal Clancy, of this city. Voorhees was a plasterer, and came from LaPorte, Ind. Creque is a carpenter and has a wife and three children at Crawfordsville, Ind.

Evans Testifies for Himself.

Special to the Indianapolis Journal. GREENCASTLE, Oct. 11.-In the Evans trial Saturday afternoon the prisoner testified in his own behalf. His testimony was not completed at the hour of adjournment He detailed at length his transactions with Adams relating to the treatment of Mrs. Evans for the morphine habit. The State had sought to connect him with the midnight assassination of Adams by the track of a road cart to and from his house, ten miles distant, but the evidence, though damaging, was not conclusive. A letter to Mrs. Evans, the final discovery of which led to the killing of Adams, was given to the jury to-day. The signature was identified by several witnesses as that of Adams.

Safe-Blowers at Fort Wayne.

Special to the Indianapolis Journal. FORT WAYNE, Oct. 11 .- At an early hour Saturday morning burgiars entered the store of the Seavey Hardware Company and attempted to drill open the large safe. They were unable to pierce the door knocked off the knob of the combination, filled the opening with powder and blew off the lock. The robbers secured $250 in cash. The work was done by professionals, and there is no clew.

sixteen years old. Shot by an Unknown Man,

Special to the Indianapolis Journal. SPENCER, Oct. 11 .- A mysterious shooting affair occurred near here last night. A crowd of boys had been out on a lark in the country and were returning down Rocky hill near Spencer when suddenly there was a pistol report and a streak of fire flashed from some bushes near the roadside. The bullet went so close to the boys that they heard it "ping" and they made haste to get out of range. The unknown enemy, however, fired again, and this time the bullet struck Daniel Curtis on the head a glancing angle, tearing a deep furrow around the skull without penetrating to the brain. Two more shots fol-lowed in rapid succession without causing further injury. The wounded youth was carried to his home and now lies in a dangerous con

Youthful Elopers. Columbus, Oct. 11 .- On Thursday of last week, Bettie and Lucy Stark, aged thirteen and and fifteen, with Samuel and Willie Wilcox, left this city in a covered spring-wagon drawn by one old horse. The ages of the Wilcox boys are fifteen and seventeen. The four are members of gypsy families who spend the summer in this part of the State in different localities. They came here about two weeks ago, and left as quietly as they came. The four are elopers, and older members of the families, with whom they had some differences some time ago, are on their track and traced them to this city. No one here is able to tell the direction taken by the youthful Valuable Horse Stolen. Special to the Indianapolis Journal.

COLUMBUS, Oct. 11 .- William H. Conn, a well to-do farmer residing eight miles west of this city, had a fine thoroughbred mare, very valuable, taken from the rack at Mount Pleasant Church early Saturday night. The thief was seen by some young men, who supposed he was the owner. He was a well-dressed man, and was very bold in the theft, which gave him much the advantage of his pursuers. All efforts to run down and capture the stolen property and thief have so far failed.

Jumped the Track.

Special to the Indianapolis Journal. MARTINSVILLE, Oct. 11 .- Just as the Big Four passenger and freight train was nearing the city limits last night a rather costly wreck occurred. No one was badly injured. The wreck was caused by a box-car jumping the track. The train was behind time and was making a rapid run. All the trucks were torn from under the baggage-car and also from under the offending box-car. The trainmen suffered some from Sy ing trunks and the passengers were considerably shaken up.
